

RALEIGH BICYCLE ROUTES

SIGNED ROUTE DESCRIPTIONS

Recreation Loop Routes

- 1 Route 1 includes a journey along the Buckeye Greenway trail with a ride past historic Oakwood Cemetery and Lions Park. The terrain is gently sloping with some small hills. Traffic is light to moderate. However, caution should be used in crossing Raleigh Boulevard and in pedaling along Milburne Road or Oakwood Avenue during rush hours.
- 2 Route 2 passes near North Hills, Oystertown, and Shelley-Sertoma Parks. It is characterized by tree lined streets with rolling hills. Connections may be made with several greenways radiating from Shelley Lake. Caution should be used along North Hills Drive and while crossing Millbrook Road and Northbrook Drive, particularly during rush hours.
- 3 The two miles of bicycle lanes on Ridge Road are the backbone of Route 3 in West Raleigh. Terrain is gentle and traffic is light with only a few busy street crossings at Dixie Road, Glen Eden Drive, and Lake Boone Trail. Opportunities abound for creating short personally favored rides by cycling along many of the many interconnecting streets in this area.
- 4 Along Route 4 cyclists can stop at the N. C. State University Arboretum, several neighborhood parks like Kentwood, Method, and Powell Park, or they can venture onto the N. C. State U. campus to see the historic Finley House. Special caution is needed at the crossing of Western Boulevard and Blue Ridge Road.

Cross Town Routes

- 5 This north-south route in west Raleigh travels along Ridge Road and Gorman Street primarily. It passes the west side of the N. C. State University and links Route 10 on Glen Eden Drive to Route 6 on Thistlewood Drive. The streets on this route are wide, but often busy with traffic. Use caution at street crossings, particularly on Wade Avenue.
- 6 From east to west across the southern side of the city Route 6 connects Route 11 near Sandford Road Park to Route 5 on Gorman Street. Carolina Pines Park is easily accessible. Cyclists will usually generally low traffic residential streets, but should use caution crossing several major streets including South Saunders Street, Wilmington Street, and Hammond Road.
- 7 Cyclists may use this route to cross the I-440 beltline on Yakin Drive between the North Hills neighborhoods and the southern half of Raleigh. Route 7 passes through N. C. State University and extends to the greenway and parking attractions at Lake Johnson. Use special caution at Glenwood Avenue and through N. C. S. U., where weekday traffic is heavy.
- 8 Route 8 connects west Raleigh and the State Fairgrounds to the southeast by passing through Downtown. Attractions along this route include the State Capital and City of Market. Always use caution on these busy streets, but particularly at rush hours and on Hargett, Hough Street and Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard. There are very few hills on this route.

- 9
 Beginning at Cedar Hills Park in the Raleigh Route 9 crosses the I-440 Beltline on Lassiter Mill Road near North Hills Mall and goes south through the Downtown business district toward Wardhale Park in the southeast. It is characterized by many busy streets. Use caution especially at the crossings on Glenwood Avenue, New Bern Avenue, and Six Forks Road.
- 10
 Route 10 is an east-west route from Kiwanis Park in east Raleigh to Laurel Hills Park at Edwards Mill Road. Cyclists may experience rolling hills on quieter residential streets. Other attractions include the All Children's Playground and Glen Eden Park.
- 11
 This north-south route along several major thoroughfares on the east side of the city connects Durant Park to Sanderford Road Park while crossing five other routes. Defensive cycling techniques should be used with additional caution during rush hours.
- 12
 Cyclists just north of I-440 may use this east-west route to go from Route 11 on Brentwood Road to the North Hills area. Use caution crossing Six Forks Road, Wake Forest Road, and Atlantic Avenue.
- 14
 Route 14 links several north Raleigh neighborhoods and shopping centers between West Millbrook Middle School and Lake Lynn Park. Cyclists will encounter narrow road shoulders and heavy and busier traffic than other routes.
